

Food Bank In the News

Posted At : December 17, 2009 12:10 PM | Posted By : Food Bank Staff

Related Categories: Public Policy & Legislation, In the News, Events & Campaigns, Research & Evaluation

by Daniel Buckley

The Food Bank continually works to raise awareness and support for hunger relief through media, providing information, data and stories of those in need.

Here are some of the recent stories that have featured the Food Bank so far this holiday season:

THIS WEEK: Fox 5, "Good Day New York"

NY Weather Authority Mike Woods visits the Food Bank For New York City's 90,000 square-foot Bronx warehouse to help get the word out about hunger in our city, interview President and CEO Lucy Cabrera and repack food for delivery to food pantries and soup kitchens.

WNYC, "The Brian Lehrer Show"

Áine Duggan, the Food Bank For New York City's Vice President of Research, Policy & Education, discusses hunger in New York and demand at food assistance programs across the city.

The New York Times, "City Room" blog, "Stimulus Funds Stock Pantries and Soup Kitchens"

Nationwide, food assistance programs received an extra $100 million in resources from the stimulus, on top of the $250 million that was originally budgeted. New York State's financing soared 118 percent to $45 million, of which $28.5 million went to New York City.

NY1, "Food Bank For New York City Prepares Pre-Thanksgiving Day Feast"

With more than three million New Yorkers experiencing food shortages, the Food Bank's Community Kitchen & Food Pantry of West Harlem prepared a Thanksgiving feast for those most in need.

Time/The Associated Press, "Food Banks Go High Tech to Feed the Hungry"

Food banks across the country are undergoing a high-tech revolution, adopting sophisticated databases, bar coding, GPS tracking, automated warehouses and other technologies used in the food industry that increasingly supplies their goods.

"Lola Berry New York," Episode 4

Australian television personality Lola Berry drops by the Food Bank's downtown office to interview Vice President of Policy, Research and Education Áine Duggan before subwaying it up to Harlem to speak with Jesse Taylor, the Senior Director of our Community Kitchen & Food Pantry of West Harlem.